AgeebyWilliamC.KyleneBeers,Ed. There are strategies that successful readers employ to gain deep meaning from text. By keeping an eye and an ear out for the best writing, and taking time to mark and file it by key quality for use when developing and presenting lessons, teachers develop a rich and diverse collection of mentor texts to inspire the best writing from students. They have a solid handle on their audience and purpose for writing, and they choose an appropriate voice—cheerful or melancholy, humorous or serious, confident or uncertain, confrontational or conciliatory, whimsical or authoritative, and so on.
