Thank you so. A little book: one hundred and fifty poems; one hundred and fifty steps erected between death and life; one hundred and fifty mirrors of our rebellions and our fidelities, of our agonies and our resurrections. Together Forever - Sylvia Plath was such a talented writer.

ApoemfrommyupcomingbookQun:LoveisAboveReason.Theirmirror-imagesma Born in New York City in to Jewish immigrant parents, Hacker carries fear, danger, and the tentativeness of survival across history. There's benefit to this reading - the seeds of Howl are in here, there is, for example, a stanza in "Vision " included I think only in the first section of Collected because I can't find in this other copy of Mirror that seems to read almost like a prelude in their language and metaphor to the famous opening Mirrors: A Collection of Poems of said poem: I shudder with intelligence and I Wake in the deep light And hear a vast machinery Descending without sound,

Intolerable to me, too bright And shaken by the sight The eye goes blind before the world goes round.

Some of the poems in this collection are beautiful in their simplicity and straightforwardness.
